Ergonomists recommend movement throughout the day to address the stress and strain of intense computing activity.

Today's approach to workplace health is all about movement. Height-adjustable tables make the workplace a more health-conscious environment. These worksurfaces deliver a complete range of ergonomic postural benefits by allowing employees to sit or stand at their whim without disturbing others, maximizing comfort and productivity.

Steelcase's height-adjustable desks support the physiology and biology of workers. In any workplace, the bottom line is the health and wellbeing of its workers. A health-conscious workplace protects the company's most significant investment and ensures the greatest productivity, efficiency, and innovation possible.
